Success advice: How can you be successful in this course?

To be successful you need to attend class regularly, whether it is offered in class or in a remote learning format. If you fall behind, do your very best to get caught up – break up large tasks into small bite-sized pieces. Ask for help when you need it. Strive to complete all work to the best of your ability within the required time frames. Do the best that you can – nobody can ask anything more of you than that. Finally, try to enjoy the process of learning something new – you'll surprise yourself with what you can accomplish when you set your mind to it. I look forward to working with you this semester.

Your role in academic integrity

Integrity matters in every profession. In an educational institution, academic integrity is the cornerstone of acting with integrity. Studying with academic integrity means you complete your own work, cite others' work appropriately and accurately, and take responsibility for demonstrating what you have learned.

Georgian's Academic Integrity Policy highlights the fundamental philosophy of academic integrity at Georgian.

"Academic integrity arises from a community of shared values and responsibilities, including "honesty, trust, fairness, respect, responsibility, and courage" ([International Center for Academic Integrity \[ICAI\]](#), 2021, p. 4)."

Every member of the college community has a role to play in upholding academic integrity. Breaches of academic integrity are described in 8. Academic integrity and documented using Breach of Academic Integrity Form \(BAIF\). Visit Academic Integrity on the MyGCLife for support and information about academic integrity. Access the Academic Integrity Module (AIM) to learn more.

We invite you to consider your role in upholding academic integrity at our college.

Georgian's academic policies and regulations: The college's roadmap

As a student, you should be familiar with the policies and regulations that affect your academic life. Please access Georgian College's academic regulations for policies and processes regarding admissions, credit for prior learning, registration and fees, academic grade record and promotion, graduation, academic and related records, academic integrity, academic appeals, and tests, examinations, and graded assignments.

Important for this course are:

- 8. Academic integrity
- 9. Academic appeals
- 10. Tests, examinations and graded assignments

You can also access Academic Policies for protocols that govern the quality assurance of the college and its programs.

At Georgian, we all have a role to play in providing a safe, inclusive and respectful learning environment. You are encouraged to review your rights, responsibilities and process options as outlined in the Student Code of Conduct.

My personal commitment to reconciliation

I acknowledge and respect that both my place of residence and my place of employment are situated on the traditional land of the Anishnaabeg people. The Anishnaabeg include the Ojibwe, Odawa, and Pottawatomi nations, collectively known as the Three Fires Confederacy. I seek to actively decolonize, honour this land, and learn from Indigenous values and teachings. I am dedicated to creating safer spaces for all peoples.

Georgian's commitment to our foundational threads and the UNSDGs: Equity, diversity, inclusion and belonging; Indigenization; and Changemaking

There are three areas of focus woven throughout our work at Georgian: Equity, diversity, inclusion and belonging; Indigenization; and Changemaking.

- Equity, diversity, inclusion and belonging (EDIB): These are the foundational principles that shape the way we teach, learn and engage with one another at Georgian.
- Indigenization: Georgian is on a journey of truth-telling, decolonization and reconciliation.
- Changemaking: We believe in the power of education to advance positive transformation in our communities, workplaces and the world.
